

There are courses on using ChatGPT, but those are not really needed. I have read and researched a lot on how to use ChatGPT effectively, and this two prompt format are the one that can do all the works effectively.

The two god prompt format:

1. Generate [task] following these instructions: [instructions]
2. As a [role], generate [task] following these instructions: [instructions]

Example:

1. Generate a python code following these instructions: the code should take user input and show it's factorial also handle the errors and crashes.
2. As a programmer, generate a python code following these instructions: the code should take user input and show it's factorial also handle the errors and crashes.
